Description :

Prsentation de l'diteurHe could be out there right now. Passing you on the street. Youd never know DI Charlotte Savage is back, chasing a killer who was last at large ten years ago, a killer they presumed dead Now hes back and more dangerous than ever.When three headless bodies are found mutilated in a pit, its a particularly challenging case for DI Savage and her team. The victims bear the hallmarks of a killer who butchered girls to their death; a killer who was never caught.Could this be a copycat or has the original murderer resurfaced? With a steady stream of bodies arriving at the morgue and gruesome secrets from the past emerging DI Savage is up against it to find the killer before he strikes again?Part thriller, part police procedural, a must-read for fans of Mark Billingham and Tim Weaver.Prsentation de l'diteurHe could be out there right now. Biographie de l'auteur Mark Sennen was born in Epsom, Surrey and later spent his teenage years on a smallholding in Shropshire. He attended the University of Birmingham and read Cultural Studies at CCCS. Mark has had a number of occupations, being variously a farmer, drummer and programmer. Now his hi-tech web developer's suite, otherwise known as a shed in the garden, has been converted to a writer's den and he writes almost full-time. Mark lives in rural Devon with his family.
