Description :

Prsentation de l'diteurThe #1 bestseller in self defense books!Do you want real self defense tips that are based on what works in the real world?Then look no further. This book is as real as it gets and probably the most no bullshit self defense book you will ever read! s:"...a book extrapolated from real world experience that is based on reality and not academic theory."...what you read here could very well save your life someday."...the ONLY book I've read that has given me any real confidence in my ability to defend myself properly. GET IT."In this book you will learn:How to properly take responsibility for your personal safetyHow to formulate a self defense gameplan that worksHow to sharpen your awareness skills and stay "switched on"How to conquer fear and adrenalineHow to really hit hard and hit first when necessaryThe self defense techniques that instill panic in your attacker and force them to capitulateAnd much moreBy the time you finish reading this book you will have a complete self defense gameplan in place and you will know more about how to protect yourself than most people out there, even the ones who train in self defense already! This book is based on a lifetimes experience from martial arts/self defense training and real world experience from the street and working doors as a bouncer. No one else will come to your rescue if you get in trouble. Only you can protect yourself when needed. Let this book show you how.Prsentation de l'diteurThe #1 bestseller in self defense books!Do you want real self defense tips that are based on what works in the real world?Then look no further. What you need (and what Neal provides) is a variety of detailed strategies--each designed to help you solve a particular problem related to self defence. Neal writes his books and articles for a variety of people: self defence practitioners, martial artists, security personnel or anyone who is seeking a deeper knowledge and understanding of the principles of good personal protection. What seperates him from other self defence writers is his ability to explain complex topics in a no nonsense straightforward manner. He doesn't offer guarantees (they don't exist in self defence) but always delivers step by step strategies you can implement immediately. In his spare time, Neal likes to train hard, read, write and talk about himself in the third person. Want to know more? Then check out his blog, Combative Mind, or look him up on Facebook.
